

Keeping air clean in Bristol

A new law starts on 28 November 2022.

The new law is called
Bristol Clean Air Zone.

The Clean Air Zone is a small area
in the middle of Bristol.

Some people driving vehicles will be charged £9 a day to drive through the Clean Air Zone.

People that drive vehicles that use diesel and were made before 2015
will be charged money to drive
into the Clean Air Zone.

People that drive vehicles that use petrol and were made before 2006
will be charged money to drive
into the Clean Air Zone.

Clean Air for Bristol

If you drive a vehicle that makes a lot more pollution than other vehicles, you will also be charged £9 a day.

Some cars, vans and lorries will not be charged money to drive into the Clean Air Zone.

Motorbikes will not be charged.

You can check on this website if you will be charged to drive your vehicle through the Clean Air Zone.

If you are a blue badge holder you should tell us and we won't charge you.

This will last until 31 March 2023.

If you have Disabled Road Tax you will not have to pay the charge for the Clean Air Zone.

If you live or work in the Clean Air Zone you can ask us to help you buy a vehicle that makes less pollution.
